TIME GOES BY TURNS.

[The following lines are by Robert Southwell, born in 1560, and executed at Tyburn in 1595.]

The lopped tree in time may grow again,
Most naked plants renew both fruit and flower;
The sorriest wight may find release from pain;
The dryest soil sucks in some moistening shower;
Time goes by turns; and chances change by course,
From foul to fair, from better hap to worse.

The sea of Fortune doth not ever flow;
She drops her favors to the lowest ebb;
Her tides have equal times to come and go;
Her loom doth weave the fine and coarsest web.
No joy so great but runneth to an end,
No hap so hard but may in time amend.

Not always full of leaf, nor ever spring;
Not endless night, nor yet eternal day;
The saddest birds a season find to sing;
The roughest storm a calm may soon allay.
Thus, with succeeding terms, God tempereth all,
That man may hope to rise; yet fear to fall.

A chance may win that by mischance was led;
That net that holds no great takes little fish;
In some things all, in all things none are crossed;
Few all things need, and none have all they wish.
Unmingled love here to no man befall;
Who least, hath some; who most, have never all.

Serenity.

"Friends," commonly known as Quakers, as a class live longer than any other persons in the world. The very name of Quaker brings up before the mind the personification of equanimity, composure and quiet dignity. The serene commands at once our confidence, our respect and our love. The brave are serene, and so are the good. In fact, serenity is our highest dignity; it is godlike! And as we should aim to be like Him in all qualities possible to man, it is our duty to cultivate serenity, not only because it promotes length of days on the earth, and happiness, but does much toward preparation for that after life, whose duration is endless and whose quality is bliss! That serenity of mind is a cultivatable characteristic, is demonstrated by the existence of Friends' Society. Their founders were, as other men in birth and habits and propensities; but convictions of certain moral and practical truths came upon them, and they emerged into a new life; they "put off the old man with his deeds," and thereupon framed to themselves a new garb a "moral dress," which made them stand out in the world a distinct and an admired people. Peace is a fundamental faith of theirs, and peace is serene. Even handed justice toward all of human kind is the polar star of their practical faith, and justice is serene. By the practice of these serenities themselves, and by their inculcation upon their children, they have, in a half dozen generations, made it an almost inheritable virtue.

While we should cultivate serenity of heart and mind, for the benign influences which it cannot fail to have on ourselves and on those with whom we associate, we should be deterred from the neglect of cherishing a quality so divine by keeping in mind the evils which befall those who give a loose rein to the natural man. The great and good Washington is known to have been an extremely irritable man in early life, but he schooled himself to become as calm as a summer's sea in after years. Our children should be taught to look calmly at all things, to speak calmly of all things, and thus avoid those habits of conversational exaggerations, affected ejaculations, of hasty judgments and of ridiculous praises, and of demoniacal vituperations which so commonly prevail, and which are at once a disgrace to the head and heart of the multitudes who are chargeable in this regard. The want of this self control, of this calm looking at a trouble and a joy, lays us all liable to death without a moment's notice! Mr. P—— died the other day in this city from "some words with a gentleman which excited him greatly. "He was a man of varied abilities, and held many high and responsible positions," and might have held them a long time had he possessed one other ability, that of serenity. Mrs. G——, "a lady of high social distinction," on hearing that her nephew had been elected to Parliament, died under the excitement of the gratifying intelligence. Let us then practice it ourselves, and teach it to our children, to look at all things, to think of all things, to speak of all things serenely.—Journal of Health.

Deceiving Children.

I was spending a few days with an intimate friend, and never did I see a more systematic housewife, and what then seemed to me, one who had so quiet and complete control of her child. But the secret of the latter I soon learned. One evening she wished to spend with me at a neighbor's—it was a small gathering of friends, therefore she was very desirous of attending; but her child demanded her presence with him, and hearing him say his prayers, she said:

"Willie, did you not see the pretty kitten in the street to day?"

"Yes, I did," he replied; "I wish I had her; was'nt she pretty?"

"Yes, very; now don't you want me to buy the kitten for you. Perhaps the man will sell her."

"O yes, mother, do buy her."

"Well, then, be a good boy while I am gone." Thus saying, she closed the door, but he immediately called her back.

"Don't go till morning, then I can go with you; won't you stay?"

"No, Willie; the man won't sell it if I don't go to-night; so be a good boy."

He said no more, but quietly lay down.

"Is this the way you govern your child?" said I after we had gained the street; "if you knew the injury you are doing, you would take a different course."

"Injury?" she repeated, "what harm have I done? I did not tell him I would see the man—I only asked him if I should."

"But you gave him to understand that you would. He is not old enough to detect the difference now, but he soon will be. Then I fear you will perceive the error too late. You have yourself grafted a thorn, so club the point, to make it less piercing. On your return he will not see the kitten, therefore you will have to invent another falsehood to conceal the first."

We had now gained our friend's door, which ended our conversation. During the evening she seemed gayer than usual; my words had little or no effect upon her. She did not think her little one was doing all he could to keep awake to see the coveted kitten on her return, wondering what made "mother so long." It was late ere I reminded her we ought to return. But little was said during our homeward walk. She went noiselessly into the room, supposing her boy asleep; but he heard her and said:

"Mother, is that you? Have you brought the kitten; I kept awake to see it and I was very sleepy!"

"No, my dear; the man would not sell her."

"Why won't he mother?" he asked with quivering lips.

"I don't know; I suppose he wants her to catch rats and mice."

"Did he say so; mother?"

"He did not say just that, but I though he meant so."

"I did want it so bad, mother." The little lips quivered, and the tears started to his eyes. He rubbed them with his little hands, winking very fast to keep them back, but they would come; at last he fell asleep with the pearly drops glistening on his rosy cheeks. The mother's glistened also. And as she knelt to kiss them away, he murmured softly in his broken slumber, "I did want it so bad." She turned her dewy eyes toward me, saying:

"You have led me to see my error. Never will I again, let what will be the consequence, deceive my child too please myself."

Mother, you are practising the same deception? If you are, pause and think of the consequences ere it is too late. Does it not lessen your confidence in a person when you find out they have been deceiving you? Will it not lessen that of your children in you when they become old enough to detect it. Besides it would be very strange if they themselves did not imitate you in things of more importance.

It is the pride and joy of a mother's heart to gain and retain the entire confidence of her child, and it is in her power to do so if she but exercise that power by precept and rule.

OILING LEATHER.—The "Scientific American" says that oil should not be applied to dry leather, as that would invariably injure it. If you wish to oil harness, wet it over night, cover it with a blanket, and in the morning it will be dry and supple; then apply neat's foot oil in small quantities, and with so much elbow grease as will insure its disseminating itself throughout the leather. A soft, pliant harness is easy to handle, and lasts longer than a neglected one. Never use vegetable oils on leather; and among animal oils, neat's foot is the best.

Saturday Night.

One by one the days go out. Saturday night comes.

One by one the hopes go out. Eternity comes. Like hail stones, the days drop from the clouds of time, to fall cold and dreary into the fathomless past. Each day is a life—is a history. The hopes of the morning are tears by night—the air castles of Monday are the graves of Saturday night, alas, too oft. God gives us sun, life, rain, health, friends and that which is more blessed than all, golden Hope. All the rest desert us, but Hope, twin sister of Immortality, is ours through the week—into and beyond Saturday night—into the grave to bear us dry and happy through the Stygian flood and on to God. Blessed be Hope, and blessed be the nights which call us to kneel at her altar.

Changes have come during the interim between this and last Saturday night. Many a mound in the churchyard or cemetery marks God's bruises on the desolate human heart. Many a heart joy has been dipped in sadness. Many a dress which one week since was white is now the deepest mourning. Some mourn. Some wear mourning while the heart rejoices. Some there are whose hearts are darker than the grave, for the lamp of love is broken and the joy of years has gone home. Scarlet buds and sombre blossoms. Such is life.

Who of us all is nearer Heaven than one week since? Who of us have laid up treasures above? Who of us have mellowed the earth in which all must rest? The account is for or against us! We all thought and vowed one week since to do right, but alas for temptation! All of us have argued with the subtle reasoner—few of us have come off victorious. Prayers have been uttered since last Saturday night. Curses have been invoked. The record has been perfectly kept, and some day 'twill be opened to our eyes. Let us rest from labor and renew our vows. By the family fireside—by the family altar—by the cot and the couch there is much to do this night. Look back down the dark lane. See what a wreck is there strewn. Hopes which have died. Promises badly broken. Good intentions and noble resolutions lie bleeding and torn as far back as the eye can reach. Hard words lie where soft ones would have been better. There are disappointments and betrayals, bitter words and wicked acts strewn thick over the ground. Ruins—ruins—ruins! Here and there a fragrant flower lifts its silent voice and rears its pearly leaf to gladden the debris around. Here and there a blossom. Here and there, but too far apart can be seen the beautiful in strange contrast to the ruins and wrecks. Life is a dark lane. Would to God there were more flowers and fewer ruins! Would there were more loves and fewer hates. More white and less red.

How the changes come over us! What gave joy is now a pile of ashes! The lips we loved to kiss a week since, now have no nectar! The hand which once thrilled in rapture at the slight touch of love, now forgets to answer back! The eye has grown cold or worse than indifferent! Who is to blame? Some one. And why? None but God can tell truly! As the sun goes down and the Sabbath rises, let us strive again! Mother! clasp still closer to your heart the pledge you now caress, for God may want it back before another Saturday night is yours. The pet you kissed and caressed one week ago, has been taken away—who will go next? Deal gently with those who have erred. Heaven is forgiving. God is love. Strive to be happy. Let kind words, good wishes and liberality of sentiment, expand all our hearts this night, for they are blessed influences—none too plenty.

If you have a friend draw him closer to your heart. If you have a life in your keeping, do by it as you would be done by. Pause ere you do evil. Think of the reward there is for those who resist temptation—for those who love. Look back. Listen! A little, prattling voice, now stilled in death!—a mother's gentle tones, perhaps well nigh forgotten!—a sister's plaintive eye is calling you to happiness! Look over the past—the blessed memories—the mementoes of the heart—and tell us if you are not glad that Heaven is nearer by one more Saturday Night.

A MERIDEN (Ct.) clergyman preached from the text, "Adam where art thou?" last Sunday. He divided his discourse into three parts; first, all men are somewhere; second, some are where they ought not to be, and third, unless they mend their ways they will eventually find themselves where they'd rather not be.

WIT AND HUMOR.

☞"Let me look at some collars," said a gaunt, rough looking fellow, addressing the proprietor of a country store not a hundred miles from Montreal. "With pleasure, sir," was the response; and the stock of colors was shown to the customer, who fumbled them over, and then, with a gesture of contempt, turned away with the remark that they were not the kind he wanted. "What kind do you want?" queried the shopkeeper. "We have most every kind." "Well, it's secesh collars; them's the style for me!"—"Walk right this way—we have that style, too," was the response, as the shopkeeper unrolled about eight feet of hempen cord, and quickly twisting it into a loop, held it up before the astonished gaze of the "secesher." He had no more to say, but quietly took his departure.

☞Sharp boys evidently grow in Wapello county, Iowa. The Courier gives a specimen brick. It says: "A few days ago a young schoolmistress in this county was taking down the names and ages of her scholars, at the commencement. She asked a little white headed boy, "Bub, how old are you?" "Ha? my name aint Bub, it's John." "Well," said the schoolmistress, "what is the rest of your name?" "Why that's all the name I've got—jist John." "Well, what is your father's name?" "You needn't put pap's name down, he ain't cumen to school any; he's too big to go to school." "Well, how old are you?" "I aint old at all, I'm young."

☞A small boy heard a parson preach a sermon from these words, 'Ye must be born again,' which was frequently repeated during the discourse. The little hearer paid strict attention to all that was said, and particularly to the text.

After he returned he became melancholy. His father observed it and enquired the cause. The boy told him that the preacher said he must be born again.

"Well, my son," replied his father, "why do you cry about it?"

"Oh," said the boy, "I'm so afraid that next time I'll be made a gal."

☞"Doctor," said a hard looking customer the other day to a physician, "I am troubled with a depression, an uneasiness about the breast. What do you suppose the matter is?"

"All very easily accounted for," responded the physician; "you have water on the chest."

"Water! Come, that will do well enough for a joke, but how could I get water on my chest, when I haven't touched a drop for more than fifteen years?"

☞The father of Genl Grant made a short speech at the recent Union Convention of Ohio, in which he stated that he had been often asked if he did not feel proud of that boy of his. This reminded him of an occasion when this question was asked him in the presence of a Dutchman, who interrupted him by saying:

"He isn't to blame; he couldn't help it."

☞"Billy," said a benevolent vender of food for stoves, as with cheerful visage he sat down to his matutinal repast, "is it cold?" "Werry cold, father," was the reply. "Is the gutters froze, Billy?" rejoined the parent.—Wery hard, father, they is," was the response. "Ah!" sighed the old gentleman, "put up the coal two pence a pail, Billy. God help the poor!"

☞"Dar are," said a sable orator, oddressing his brethren, "two roads tro' dis world: De one am a broad and narrow road dat leads to perdiction, and de oder a narrow and broad road dat leads to sure destruction." "If dat am de case," said a sable hearer, "dis cullud iddiwidual takes to de wood."

☞A wandering paragraph gives a quaint antithesis in regard to a difference in the extravagances of the sexes, in the remark that a man gives two shillings for an eighteen penny thing he wants, and a woman gives eighteen pence for a two shilling thing she does not want.

☞"How is it," said one miss to another, that John's never afraid, and I am?"

"Because he's got a Roman nose, and feels safe. Don't you remember how we read that it hat always been said that a Roman knows—no danger?"

☞"Ike," said Mrs. Partington' "how do they find out the difference between the earth and the sun?"

"Oh," said the young hopeful, "they calculate a quarter of the distance, and then multiply by four."

☞The man who courts a young lady in the starlight probably expects to get a wife in a twinkling.

Waste and Want.

Mrs. Haskell, in her "Household Encyclopædia," onumerates a long list of small household leaks, which we commend to the careful attention of every housekeeper:

Much waste is experienced in the boiling, etc., of meats. Unless watched, the cook will throw out the water without letting it cool to take off the fat, or scrape the dripping-pan into the swill-pail. The grease is useful in many ways. It can be burned in lamps, mixed with lard; or, when no pork has been boiled with it, made into candles. When pork has been boiled alone, it will do to fry cakes, if cleansed. Again, bits of meat are thrown out, which would make hashed meat or hash. The flour is sifted in a wasteful manner, or the bread-pan left with the dough sticking to it. Pie crust is left, and laid by to sour, instead of making a few tarts for tea. Cake batter is thrown out because but little is left.

Cold puddings are considered good for nothing, when oftentimes they can be steamed for the next day, or, as in the case of rice, made over in other forms. Vegetables are thrown away that would warm for breakfast nicely. Dish-cloths are thrown where mice can destroy them. Soap is left in water to dissolve, or more used than is necessary. If Bath brick, whiting, rotten-stone, &c., are used, much is wasted uselessly. The scrubbrush is left in water, pails scorched by the stove, tubs and barrels left in the sun to dry and fall apart, chamber-pails allowed to rust, tins not dried, and ironware rusted; nice knives used for cooking in the kitchen; silver spoons used to scrape kettles, or forks to toast bread. Rinsing of sweetmeats, and skimmings of syrup, which make good vinegar, are thrown out; cream is allowed to mould and spoil; mustard to dry in the pot, and vinegar to corrode the castor; tea, roasted coffee, pepper, and spices, to stand open and lose their strength.

The molasses jug loses cork and the flies take possession. Sweetmeats are opened and forgotten. Vinegar is drawn in a basin and allowed to stand until both basin and vinegar are spoiled. Sugar is spilled from the barrel, coffee from the sack and tea from the chest. Different sauces are made too sweet, and both sauce and sugar wasted. Dried fruits have not been taken care of in season, and become wormy. The vinegar on pickles loses its strength or leaks out, and the pickles become soft. Potatoes in the cellar grow, and the sprouts are not removed until they become worthless. Apples decay for want of looking over. Pork spoils for want of salt, and the beef because the brine wants scalding. Hams become tainted or filled with vermin, for want of the right protection. Dried beef becomes so hard it cannot be cut; cheese molds, and it is eaten by mice or vermin: lard is not well tried in the fall, and becomes tainted; butter spoils for want of being well made at first.

Bones are burned that would make soup; ashes are thrown out carelessly, endangering the promises and being wasted. Servants leave a light burning in the kitchen when they are all out of an evening. Clothes are whipped to pieces in the wind, fine cambrics rubbed on the board, and laces torn in scratching. Brooms are never hung up, and good ones are spoiled. Carpets are swept with stubs hardly fit to scrub the kitchen, and good new brooms used for scrubbing. Towels are used in place of holders, good sheets to iron on, taking a fresh one every week, thus scorching nearly all in the house. Fluid if used, is left uncorked, endangering the house and wasting the alcohol. Caps are left from lambs, rendering the fluid worthless by evaporating. Table-linen is thrown carelessly down and eaten by mice, or put away damp and is mildewed, or the fruit stains are forgotten and the stains washed in.

Table-cloths and napkins are used as dish wipers; mats forgotten to be put under hot dishes; teapots melted by the stove; water forgotten in pitchers and allowed to freeze in winter; slops for cow and pigs never saved; china used to feed cats and dogs on; and in many other ways a careless and inexperienced housekeeper will waste, without heeding, the hard-earned wages of her husband; when she really thinks—because she buys no fine clothes, makes the old ones last, and cooks plainly—she is a most superior housekeeper. The next time an unthinking husband is disposed to be severe because some trifling matter has been neglected, he should "put that in his pipe and smoke it."

At a debating society a wheelright was said to be the best spokes-man.

STORING ROOTS FOR WINTER.—Mr. Editor:—I have been raising roots for a number of years and have tried various ways for keeping them in winter, and have found that by burying them in the field they will come out better in the spring than any way I have ever tried. If there is no danger of water getting in the heap, I make a long one in the middle of my patch of roots; after pulling a few rows I take the horses and plow, and make trench by throwing a furrow each way. The roots can be wheeled in from each way or hauled with a cart.—After topping the heap to the requisite height, I put a little straw on, and then about six inches of earth—this is spanked down; about every eight feet I stand a wisp of straw upright for chimneys to let the dampness escape, as they will sweat. Before freezing weather, I haul some long manure and put it on the heap.

A long heap has this advantage—you can work at each end and cover the middle; and when you take them out, open one end only, and after taking out what you want, throw some of the manure on to prevent them freezing. Should there be danger of water, I put the heap on top of the ground; this takes a little more time to cover them. I have had as much as five hundred bushels of turnips in a heap of this kind. Carrots and rutabagas I bury in the same way.—Germantown Telegraph.

WHEN TO SELECT SEED POTATOES.—The best time to select seed potatoes is; when they are dug. As soon as they are brought to the surface and lie spread on the ground, the best can be selected with less difficulty than at any other time. Those that are perfectly matured and of good shape, have the marked characteristics of the variety, and good average size, should be selected for seed, in preference to those of any other qualities. They should then be placed in boxes or barrels, and kept where they will not be injured by freezing or by warmth. If seed potatoes are saved in this manner for a few years in succession, we have no doubt a decided improvement will be observed in the yield per acre, as well as in the quality of the crops. And we think this practice will also be found an effectual security against small ones and a good defence against rot. When potatoes first come from the ground the skins have a clearness which they soon lose.

ORCHARDS.—A Connecticut correspondent of the Rural New Yorker recommends pasturing orchards with sheep. He says: "I consider the best way to treat an orchard after it has been seeded to grass is to pasture it with sheep. They seem to be just fitted for the purpose, as they remove very little from the soil that is not returned; they eat what apples drop early because of worms, together with the pests themselves, and keep the grass down short, making it good picking up the fruit. I know by my own experience and the testimony of observing, practical men, that trees will thrive and bear larger crops of fruit, almost free from knots and worms, when sheep are allowed to run among them until the fruit begins to ripen, while other orchards that have been mowed will make only a small growth and produce only second or third rate fruit."

LICE ON STOCK.—Caleb Canfield, of Livingston county, Michigan, writes the Rural, that he has no such thing about him as lice on cattle, horses, hogs, hens, geese, neither ticks on sheep. His remedy is sulphur. To an ox, or cow, or hen, he gives a tablespoonful in their feed; to sheep less. He puts it in the coops of the fowls in small lumps. Feeds it once a month in winter, but not in summer, except to hogs. He gives his horned cattle and horses a spoonful of pulverized saltpeter in the month of March or April, and again, without fail, when he turns them out to grass. He also feeds his cattle and horses about a pint of flaxseed once a month in winter.

USE LIME.—We are surprised that few farmers use lime as a means of promoting the health of their domestic animals. In hot weather the atmosphere of every stable, piggery, hennery, or other abode of farm animals necessarily becomes tainted with the noxious effluvia generated by the decomposition of animal and vegetable matter. Lime is a great purifier. Use it freely, therefore. Apply it liberally as a whitewash to the oft-cleansed stalls, racks and feed boxes. It will pay better than any investment you can possibly make in drugs. Don't wait another day.

☞This column is filled with items of interest to the farmer that would be well we think to bear experiment.

EARTH NOT OUR ABIDING PLACE.—Bulwer eloquently says: I cannot believe that earth is man's abiding place. It can't be that our life is cast upon the ocean of eternity to float a moment upon its waves and then sink into nothingness! Else why is it that the glorious aspirations, which leap like angels from the temple of our heart, are forever wandering about unsatisfied? Why is it that the rainbow clouds come over with a beauty that is not of earth, and then pass off and leave us to muse upon their faded loveliness? Why is it that the stars, who hold their festival around the midnight throne, are set above the grasp of limited faculties, forever mocking us with their unapproachable glory? And, finally, why is it that bright forms of human beauty are presented to our view, and then taken from us, leaving the thousand streams of our affection to flow back in Alpine torrents upon our hearts? We are born for a higher destiny than that of earth; there is a realm where the rainbow never fades—where the stars will be spread before us like islands that slumber on the ocean—and where beings that pass before us like shadows will stay in our presence forever.

DAUGHTERS AND SERVANTS.—If parents of small means would train up one of the daughters to undertake the cooking of the family, another to do the housework, instead of keeping an overworked, incompetent maid-of-all-work, it would be far better for the girls themselves and for the comfort of the family than let them go out into the world as second or third-rate governesses or music teachers. We have seen the comfort of a house in which the daughters had been trained to do all the work of the family. The young ladies were as refined, and their hands as nicely kept as if they had done nothing but the desultory uselessness which seems to preside over female employments. The more refined and lady-like a woman is, the neater and quicker she transacts any household work she undertakes. In colonial life, where there is a general dearth of servants, and both ladies and gentlemen turn their hand to any work that may be needful, without any thought of indignity or degradation; their best and most hopeful faculties are developed without any loss to their love or self-improvement, or to their intrinsic refinement.—Athenæum.

DON'T.—The following advice can be best appreciated by editors:—Don't write poetry. If you cannot help it, if it sings in your head and will be heard, why then there is no other way but to put it on paper and send it to the printer. But try to help it if you can. There are only two or three poets alive at any one time. A great poet makes and marks an age; and poor poets, or those who think they are poets and are not, are as plenty as blackberries. Every hamlet has its poetaster. O! how much valuable white paper is spoiled by those who think they can write poetry. You may write correct verse with faultless rhymes, and there is not a gleam of poetry in it. Poetry requires a peculiar faculty, the imagination; you may have genius, sense and learning, and the power of expression so to write prose as to rival Burke or Johnson, and after all make yourself ridiculous, by trying your hand at poetry. Write prose.

FORCE OF EXAMPLE.—One communion Sunday, an old Kentucky soldier who had fought under General Jackson at New Orleans, and knew what manner of man he had been, attended the Hermitage Church, and saw the aged warrior kneel reverently before the altar. He was transfixed with astonishment. After the service was over, he was observed to be unusually silent and thoughtful, and, upon being questioned, related what he had seen. He concluded his narrative thus: "When I saw the man who had fought armies, parties, cabinets, and had never fought without conquering, get down on his knees in that church, I said to myself, well, when General Jackson kneels, I tell you, boys, I think it's about time for me to knock under." Four weeks after he joined the church, and lived and died an exemplary member.

"ACCIDENTS."—Three thousand one hundred and eighty one persons lost their lives, and nine hundred and thirty-five other persons suffered bodily injuries by accidents, upon American railroads or steamboats, or by explosions of powder magazines or the fall of buildings, in America, during the period between the close of the war for the Union and the 31st ult.—just five months. These figures, supposing the whole year to present a similar record, would give a total of seven thousand six hundred and thirty-two deaths, and two thousand two hundred and forty-four persons wounded within the space of twelve months.

The House of Representatives Union!

Perhaps our Union friends had doubts of the Union party carrying the State. Indeed, we feared that the false issues raised by the Opposition or so-called Democratic organization might have an influence upon the minds of the mass of voters, and that they might be frightened into the support of the candidates of that party.—But the returns from every part of the State fully convince us that the Opposition cry of "negro equality," "negro suffrage," etc., had but little or no influence with sensible and true Union men. Thousands of good men who are at heart opposed to the principles of the leaders of the Opposition, at the late as at former elections, voted for the "Democratic" party and by so doing they also voted to strengthen the hands of their leaders who are anything else than Union men. But the scales are gradually falling off the eyes of such blind worshippers of a once popular party. The "Democratic party" of to-day is not the old Jackson Democratic party. The prominent leaders of the old party are now prominent in the Union party—the party the country has looked to during the past five years, and must continue to look to for help. Honest Union Democrats in the old organization should at once cut loose from the dangerous men who continue at the head of that party. The Union party is the place for all true Democrats. Come with us and we will do you good.

The official result in the State cannot be known for several days, but we have enough returns to show handsome Union gains everywhere.

THAT "BASE FORGERY."—Mr. Dickson, the candidate of the Opposition in this county for Sheriff, must be rather loose in his political notions. He was a soldier, and we believe a brave and good one, and we are sorry he allowed himself to be made use of by the corrupt men of the Opposition party. On Wednesday the 4th inst., we received a letter post marked Warriorsmark, Oct. 2d., to which his name was attached. The letter repudiated the 'Democratic party' and its support. The Monitor of the following week which was circulated on the day of the election, contained a letter signed by Mr. Dickson repudiating the Union party, and thanking the "Democratic" organization for its friendship. We don't know which letter was genuine, or whether he now endorses the sentiments of either, but we do believe that he authorized the writing of the first which was sent to us for publication. Mr. Dickson is defeated, and he will now have time to reflect, and place himself right before the people.

☞ At the late election deserters were allowed to vote in almost every county. By looking at the returns from Carbon township, this county, the place where so many fled the draft, it will be seen that there was a great falling off in the vote. This is evidence that none of the deserters voted. Perhaps they will return from Canada and elsewhere by next fall.

Items of Political News.

The vote in the State at the late election will not fall over 20,000 short of the vote last fall.

The Union majority in the State will be in the neighborhood of 20,000.

The Union majority in Dauphin county is 1627—the largest majority ever given in the county.

The Union majority in Blair county is 724. The whole county ticket is elected.

The Union State ticket had 8,408 majority in Philadelphia. McMicheal, for mayor, had 5,430 majority.

The Opposition majority in Old Berks is 5,152—an Opposition loss of several hundred.

The Union party of Bedford county have a gain of five hundred. The Opposition carry the county by only about 125 majority. This county is the home of John Cessna, the Chairman of the Union State Committee.

Ohio elects Gen. J. D. Cox, Union Candidate for Governor, by 25,000 majority.

Iowa goes for the Union candidate by 20,000.

Centre county gives the Opposition a majority of about 150, a Union gain of several hundred.

Mifflin county, gives a small Union majority and elects the whole county ticket.

Juniata county gives the Opposition about 250 Opposition majority—a Union gain.

One of the Lessons of the Victory.

Pennsylvania and Ohio unite, says the North American, in bearing their testimony to the correctness of the principles and course of the Union party. This fact is important at a time when the Democrats are seeking to recover from the terrible prostration of their party consequent upon the war. Soldier candidates will not suffice to hide the treachery of the party or induce the people to forget the hideous record it made for itself during the whole period of the nation's travail. Soldiers who may hereafter be tempted with Democratic nominations will learn from this lesson how empty is such an honor, and at the same time will see that the people will distinguish between the man and the cause. They will see how firmly the masses of voters cling to the great Union party which brought the republic safely out of the jaws of death. The true place for the Union soldier is the Union party. If the Democratic party feltsure of success at the election it would not dream of nominating soldiers for office. We advise all Union soldiers hereafter to ponder over the teachings afforded by this contest, and keep clear of Democratic associations and Democratic nominations.

Baker and Brown.

Mifflin county gives about 25 majority for Baker and Brown, and Juniata gives about 125 against them. Their majority in the District will be 55 against 600.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT—LOSS OF LIFE.—On Saturday afternoon last, when near Lancaster, Pa., one of the passenger cars of the train which passed here at 9 a. m., was crushed and several of the passengers were killed and a number of others injured.

The following particulars are given by a correspondent of the Pittsburgh Commercial:

Mrs. Ann E. Barr, wife of Hon. Jas. P. Barr, of Pittsburgh, Surveyor General of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Barr was wounded in the head and her neck was broken, and had some wounds on the body.

Col. Wm. Butler and wife, of Lewistown, Pa. Col. Butler had his head smashed, with wounds upon the body. Mrs. Butler's head was smashed and was wounded in the side. Col. Butler was whiskey inspector at Philadelphia under Governor Curtin.

Wm. H. Butler, of Williamsport, Pa. clerk in the Surveyor General's office, at Harrisburg, formerly a member of the Legislature from Carbon county, and better known as Barrey Butler, was wounded in the back part of the head, above the left eye, and on the body. Part of his left foot was cut off

Mrs. Sarah Willett, of New Cumberland, Pa., wife of Theo. Willett, had her head crushed and left arm broken

Mrs. Magdalena Yetta, or Getty, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, head crushed in on the top, right leg cut off, and was the mother of three children, who were with her, unhurt The children state that their father died in the South, and that they are on their way to Philadelphia, to visit an aunt, whose name they do not remember.

One unknown German lady and two girls, one of whom is supposed to be about fourteen and the other nine years of age, and also supposed to be of one family, have not been identified. The wounds of the old lady are a large cut in left side and a wound above the right eye. The youngest girl was wounded above the left eye, and died after being brought to the city.

Only one is known to have been seriously wounded, Captain Moffit, of Philadelphia, who left for his home yesterday. His injuries are internal.

The bodies of the three unknown persons, and that of Mrs. Yetta, have been placed in a receiving vault of one of our cemeteries for identification. The bodies of the others have been sent to their friends.

LIST OF PREMIUMS

Awarded at the Seventh Annual Exhibition of the Huntingdon County Agricultural Society, held on the 4th, 5th and 6th of October, 1865.

CLASS 1—HORSES.

The committee on horses, report that there was quite a number on exhibition, many of which reflect credit on their owners, for the interest they have manifested in improving the breed of the same. As the whole of this forenoon was necessarily taken up with the examinations by your committee, they have not had the time to give that notice in this report, of the different animals exhibited that your committee would otherwise wish to do. It is but just to state that whenever a member of this committee was an exhibitor so far as his own stock was concerned, he took no part but left it entirely to the other members of the committee to dispose of the same. Your committee would also recommend that hereafter there be three grades of premiums instead of two as at present,

CLASS 11—MECHANICAL IMPLEMENTS AND MANUFACTURES.

The committee awarded to Abram Port of Walker township for the best pair of horse shoes, a premium of 50 cents. A falling top buggy, manufactured by H. Philips, of Yeagertown, Mifflin county, was not entered according to the rules; and the committee are sorry they could not award a premium, but would favorably recommend it to those wishing a well finished and apparently substantial article of the kind. The committee were favorably impressed with a Washing Machine exhibited by Stephen Sawyer of Johnstown, Pa., (Joseph Keister, patentee,) and are sorry that, according to the rules, they cannot award a premium, but would remark that in their opinion, from a trial made, it fully comes up to all that is claimed for it.

Awarding Committee—Samuel McVitty, Elias Maize, David Hamilton, R. C. McGill.

CLASS 12—FRUITS.

best Irish, white, John Mentz, Juniata,	1 00
best red, Richard Chilcote, Union,	1 00
best blue, Shadrach Chaney, Barree,	1 00

To the following not enumerated in the list your committee have awarded premiums and request that the same be allowed, viz:

best peach blows, David Rupert, Henderson,	1 00
best prince Albert, same,	1 00

John Mosser of Juniata township, exhibited three varieties of very fine potatoes, names not given; your committee recommend that he receive a premium of $1.

best sweet potatoes, Saml. P. Pheasant, Union,	1 00

Henry Neff of Neff's Mills, and John Vandevander of Walker township, each exhibited specimens of very large sweet potatoes; your committee recommend that they receive a premium each of 50 cents.

best cabbage, Thomas McGarvey, Brady,	50
best mangel wertzel, the only one exhibited T Cremer	1 00
best sugar beets, Mrs. Martha Anderson, Penn,	1 00
best red beets, John McCoy, Huntingdon,	1 00

Alexander Carothers, of Yellow Springs, Blair county, also exhibited three very fine varieties of beets; your committee recommend that he receive a premium of $1.

best turnips, Shadrack Chaney,	50
Best eggplant, very large and fine, Miss H. Swoope,	50
best beans, Mrs. John Warfel, Henderson,	50

Awarding Committee—D. W. Womelsdorf, Thos. E. Orbison, Joshua Greenland, John Householder, John Gregory, George Bell.

VEGETABLES NO. 2.

The committee would recommend a premium of 50 cts. to Jacob Sharrar for sweet pumpkins, and to John M'Coy for citrons, 50 cents.

Awarding Committee—P. C. Swoope, W. H. Flenner, J. W. Mattern, John Glazier.

CLASS 14—FLOWERS.

Best display of dahlias, Mrs. T. H. Cremer, Hunt.	2 00
" flowers in bloom, Mrs. B. K. Neff, West	2 00
2d best, F. Willoughby, Huntingdon,	1 00
best floral design, Mrs. Massey, "	2 00
best boquet of dahlias, Miss Maggie Armitage, Hunt.,	50
" " flowers, Miss Susan Neff, Alexandria,	50

The display in this department was very limited, but the specimens on exhibition manifested great skill in the cultivation of flowers. The premium list having been made out by persons evidently not acquainted with floriculture the committee had considerable difficulty in making out the above reward, and would recommend that hereafter the list be prepared by persons acquainted with the cultivation of these beautiful creations of Nature. Had this been done we have no doubt the display would have been equal if not superior to that of other years.

A very handsome vase of dried flowers for winter, by Mrs. C. Willoughby of Huntingdon, was on exhibition and for which there was no premium offered.

Awarding Committee—Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, Mrs. S T Brown, Miss Emma Dorland, Thomas Tweed, H W. Miller

CLASS 15—POULTRY.

Best spanish game, H. Coyle. Huntingdon,	1 00
best spanish, N. Isenberg, Porter,	1 00

2d best, Wm. Bricker, "	50
best turkeys, Thos. J. Saukey, Henderson,	1 00
2d best, D. Rupert, "	50
best guineas, " "	1 00

The display of poultry was small to what it should have been. Too little attention is given to the raising of choice and profitable fowls. It is to be hoped that the display will be much larger next year.

Awarding Committee—Wm. Lewis, John Nightwine, H. Cornprogst.

To Merchants and Business Men.

THE undersigned having recently been appointed agent for the New York National Ink Company, hereby gives notice to merchants, business men, and to consumers of all classes that he is prepared to supply the market with an article of Ink which in addition to being the best in use, is emphatically the cheapest ever offered for sale in this country.

It neither corrodes the pen, nor moulds the inkstand, is of a rich bluish tint, flows freely, and is perfectly indelible, giving it advantages not possessed by any other Ink, whether of foreign or domestic manufacture. This Ink contains no sediment and will not therefore, thicken as most inks do, the last drop being as thin and clear as the first.

☞ All orders whether wholesale or retail, will be promptly filled, at lower rates than as good an article can be purchased in the cities or elsewhere. Persons who entertain doubts as to the superior quality and cheapness of this Ink are respectfully entreated to give it a trial. John H. Clark, sub-agent will canvass the county for the purpose of introducing this Ink.

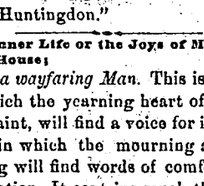
OUR FLAG AGAIN TRIUMPHANT!



OLD HUNTINGDON TRUE TO THE UNION!

The "BANNER SOLDIER TICKET"

Elected by an Overwhelming Majority!

Judge Beaver's Majority 2,615!!!

The Opposition Programme to Defeat Baker "Busted"!

THE PEOPLE HAVE SPOKEN!

THE PEOPLE WILL RULE!

We take peculiar pleasure in referring to the official returns from the several boroughs and townships of this county. The programme of the Opposition to defeat a portion of our ticket did not succeed.

The county has done nobly. The Union people have spoken. The Opposition can now again see by the result of the election that honest public opinion is on the side of our country and with the party that has during the war stood up in defence of our brave soldiers and their cause.

All honor to the true Union men of "Old Huntingdon."

The Inner Life or the Joys of My Father's House;

By a wayfaring Man. This is a book in which the yearning heart of seeker and saint, will find a voice for its longings, in which the mourning and rejoicing will find words of comfort and exultation. It contains much that will encourage us on our journey through this vale of tears to our home in glory. It is well printed on tinted paper, by Sherman & Co., Philadelphia, and well bound. It has testimonials from the late Hon. T. Frolinghuysen, Bishop Simpson, and others of God's servants. The agent of this important book will be in town for a few days, and we commend him to the courtesy and patronage of our citizens, and trust he will meet with that success commensurate with the rare merits of the work.

Good Templars.

We are pleased to learn that the order of Good Templars at McAlavey's Fort, this county, is in a most flourishing condition. The members now number nearly one hundred, and the prospect for continued increase is very favorable. We also learn that temperance meetings will be held throughout the above and adjoining neighborhoods during the fall and winter seasons.

To Railway Travelers.—An exchange proposes that the difficulty and confusion often experienced by persons going in and out of the cars at stations, be obviated by having those who wish to pass out make their egress at the back door, while those who enter go in at the front. This a sensible suggestion, and would do away with much trouble and inconvenience. Only let it be considered a breach of fashionable propriety to leave the cars through the front door, and the rule will be adopted at once.

The Election.

The election in the borough passed off quietly, the greatest interest being manifested one or two hours before the polls closed. The result proved altogether favorable, and although they worked hard before and during the day of election, yet their efforts were fruitless, as they always will be. They bear their honors meekly and will build high castles in the air for the next election.

New Grocery Store.

C. Long & Co. have just opened a Grocery and Confectionary store, in Long's former store, at the corner of the diamond. This is a Family Grocery store, keeping on hand the largest and best assortment of Groceries, Confectioneries, Nuts, Fruit, &c., &c., which will be sold at the lowest rates. Give 'em a call.

Dedication.

The new M. E. Church at Ennisville, Manor Hill Circuit, will be dedicated on the 5th day of November, next. Bishop Ames, of Baltimore, Dr. I. C. Pershing of Pittsburg, and many other ministers will be present. All are cordially invited to attend.

☞ Preaching in the German Reform church on next Sabbath morning at 10½ o'clock.

MARRIED,

On the 5th of October, by Rev. G. W. Zahniser, 1st Lieut. Robert E. Thompson, to Miss Emma B. Flenner, both of Henderson township.

Reception of a Colored Regiment.

The President Makes a Speech.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The first District of Columbia colored regiment, which, in 1862, were hissed and hooted on their first parade in this city, received quite an ovation during their parade this morning, being enthusiastically applauded, not more by persons of their own color than by the large concourse of whites, on their way to the White House. This regiment participated in eleven pitched battles and a number of skirmishes, and its tattered flag bears indisputable evidence of their noble daring in defence of their own freedom and of the integrity and perpetuity of the Union.

Upon their arrival at the White House, President Johnson appeared and addressed them in a speech of half an hour. He thanked them for the compliment paid him, and for the visit. He told them that the country for which they had so nobly fought, was as much their country as any body else's, and they should soon return as citizens to the walks of civil life. He endeavored to impress upon their minds what appeared to him the duties in which they should engage, and the rules of conduct which should regulate their life. Many, he said, talked about equality before the law, and all that, but wherever one man is more meritorious than another, what becomes of this equality? The man most meritorious is the superior. He then endeavored to inculcate in them the paramount duty of developing and improving their talents, and all the moral qualities, assuring them that just public judgment would mete to all a reward for merit, without reference to color. This he did again and again, in the course of his speech.

This is a Government, he said, founded not only upon freedom, but equality, without reference to color; but liberty, did not mean freedom to idleness, to worthlessness, or loafing, but freedom to work, to enjoy the profit of the products of our own labor. He shrewdly and somewhat skilfully avoided all direct reference to the great question of universal suffrage now agitating the nation, but told them the country was under the operation of a great and exciting experiment, to determine whether the whites and blacks, with the respective prejudices of the two races, could be incorporated or assimilated in one harmonious unit or common body politic, or that it would be necessary for the two to separate. He hoped that the separation would not be necessary, but told them that it was with themselves to determine the the problem. They must, by their own conduct, upon returning to the pursuits of peace, by abandoning all habits of idleness and immorality, by a steady application to labor, and by development of intellectual and moral qualties prove themselves as meritorious citizens as soldiers; as capable of self government and worthy of being entrusted with the higher duties of citizenship.

He concluded by again thanking them for the compliment of the visit, saying that he had talked plainly, but not with the object in any sense of wounding even the most delicate sensitiveness, but with the purpose of inciting and encouraging them to a course of conduct that would elevate them in the judgment of the world.

During the delivery of the speech there was no enthusiasm manifested by the soldiers, or by their colored friends, all the applause elicited emanating from the whites who were present.

One incident attracted our attention. When the President remarked that liberty consisted in freedom to work and enjoy the profits of one's labor, a Sergeant among the colored soldiers immediately in his front exclaimed "Thank God, it means that much."

How it will Work.—The Baltimore American treats of the effect with the war and the abolition of slavery will have upon the condition of the working class of the South, and the great increase in their demand upon Northern manufacturers. After saying that many soldiers who fought their way through the South have settled there, and many more will follow, the American continues.

This will increase the active working population of the South. Slavery, having been destroyed, those who labor, whether white or colored, receive into their own hands the earnings of which they are justly entitled. The demand will constantly augment all over the South for goods and manufacturers to supply their wants. Instead of cotton domestics and negro cloth for clothing, a taste developed by the use of money will create a demand for a higher grade of goods. Instead of unfurnished huts, with mud sills and a ground floor, the day is not far distant when the laboring people of the South will live in real houses. The single iron pot, which constituted the furniture of the slave hut, will be replaced by a stove and fixtures.

The bed of leaves or husks upon the floor will be superceded by bedsteads and matresses, or real beds in ticking. The daylight that came dimly through the log chinks will be admitted through windows with glass in them. The leather thong which lifted the latch of the hut sufficiently luxurious to own a door will be replaced with a knob-lock. There will be chairs and tables, with necessary table linen. Gourds will give way to crockery ware, and civilization may mark it as a new era when the tea-pot becomes an accompaniment to the evening meal of the Southern laborer. Buttons and pins will be needed for garments made of cloth or calico, when a single string was all that was needed to tie the neck-hole of the domestic smock frock. They will eat something else besides hog meat and hominy. There are four millions of the dark complexion who will become subject to the wants of civilized man, and the emancipated whites number is being constantly augmented by live Yankees who have seen the country and think it will do.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To the Ladies.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on South east corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.

Dyspepsia.—What every body says must be true. We have heard Dr. Strickland's Tonic spoken of so frequently by those who have been benefitted by it, that at least we are compelled to make it known to the public that we really believe it effects a cure in every case; therefore, we say to those who are suffering with Dyspepsia or Nervous Debility, to go to their Druggist and get a bottle of Dr. Strickland's Tonic.

THE RUINS OF THE LATE ALEXANDRIA FOUNDRY.

The undersigned not feeling to rebuild the Foundry now offers for sale the ruins and all property saved. The building was a stone structure.—The Moulding room was 44 x 46; Ware room, Engine and Lathe rooms were 39 x 47; the walls of which are still standing and were but little injured by the fire. The engine, boiler and stockers perfect, the cupola is also standing uninjured. There is a large stock of valuable patterns, consisting of rolling mill, grist mills, forge and furnace patterns; a large stock of flasks for all kinds of work, a full set of large and small crain and hand ladles, the largest of which is capable of holding twenty hundred.

The ground connected with the Foundry is one acre and fifteen perches, on which there is erected a frame building used as a pattern house; also, wagon and carriage houses.

ALSO,

Three houses and lots, having fruit, &c., all of which will be sold cheap. Terms easy to suit the purchaser.

Farm For Sale.

THE HEIRS of Joseph Reed will sell at private sale a valuable limestone farm containing 157 Acres, 141 Perches, and allowances, situate in WEST TOWNSHIP, Huntingdon county, Pa., one mile from Petersburg, which is on the line of the Penna. Railroad.

About 120 acres are cleared and in good state of cultivation, including some 25 acres in meadow. The remaining part is well timbered and is every acre available for farming purposes.

There are on it a large well finished brick house, a large bank barn, one tenant house, a brick spring house, carriage house, wagon shed and corn crib.—Also, an excellent apple and peach orchard. The fences are good, including nearly 200 panels post and rail fence.

On the farm are three never failing springs of the best limestone water, and a running stream passing through one corner of the barnyard. This presents a rare chance to obtain a productive, first quality farm.

PRACTICAL BUSINESS EDUCATION.

All classes of persons require such an education. Those possessing means, need it in conducting their own business Those without means need it in obtaining and creditably filling lucrative positions in the employ of others.

The course of instruction and practice is arranged so as to fully meet the diversified wants of every department of DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN TRADE,
as comprehended or embraced under the three general divisions of industry: Agriculture, Manufacture and Commerce.

Each student is instructed individually in both theory and practice of Book Keeping, according to the most approved and labor saving methods, Business Penmanship, Calculations, and all the collateral branches of a complete course of business education; and upon passing a satisfactory examination is awarded, by authority of law, a diploma, under the corporate seal of the college.

Students are received at any time. And it is believed that a practical experience of over TWENTY YEARS will be considered by the public an ample guarantee of the practical character of the course and efficiency of the instruction.

All further information desired can be obtained at the college, or by addressing the Principal for a circular by mail.

PROF. J. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,
THE
INDIAN COMPOUND
Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all these complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficiency. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label; otherwise the money will be refunded.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, applicable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger, from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.

DR. VENARD'S
STAR MAGIC LINIMENT.

$1000 REWARD will be paid for any medicine that excels this for the following diseases:

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Spinal Affections, Contracted Joints, Cholic Pains, Pains in Side or Back, Toothache, Headache, Sprains, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, and all Diseases of the Muscles, Skin and Glands.

This is an Internal and External Medicine, composed of Roots, Herbs and Barks such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on the earth to cure all complaints, if we only knew what they were. This has been a subject for constant study with the Medical Faculty for a great many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what portions to use.

This wonderful remedy needs no recommendation save the results which invariably follow its application.

☞ This popular remedy is fast coming into use from the fact that it gives good satisfaction.

☞ PHYSICIANS are invited to test its efficacy in all cases of Rheumatism, Affections of the Spinal Column, and all Diseases of the Skin, Muscles and Glands. It has been used in thousands of instances under the personal supervision of the Inventors, and has never disappointed their expectations. All we ask for it is a trial—experimental proof—not the testimony of the men of straw, are the vouchers we desire to present to the public.

It would be well for many now lying in beds of torture, if these facts could reach their sick chambers. It is more important to them than to the inventors that this should be the case. "Truth is mighty and must prevail."

☞ Keep it in your family, for sickness comes when you least expect it.
